Include 10 to 20 factors, including opportunities and threats, affecting the University. List first the opportunities, then the threat.

We have rated each of these factors weights ranging from 0.0 (not important) to 1.0 (very important). These weights indicate the relative significance of a factor to the success of the University. Opportunities often get higher weights than threats, but threats could be given high weight especially if they were very severe or threatening. The appropriate weights could be determined by comparing successful competitors to those who were unsuccessful or through discussions to reach group consensus. The total amount of weight assigned to that factor must be equal to 1.0.

مجموعه TOTAL		1.00		2.82

We have rated or ranked 1 to 4 on each of the major external factors to show how effective the University's current strategy was in response to the factor. Ranking 1 and 2 is being utilized for the threats, while the 3 and 4 is utilized for the purpose of opportunities. Multiply the weight of each factor by its rank to determine the weight score. Add the average score for each variable to determine the total weight score for the organization. The weighted score for the external factor evaluation matrix is 2.82 that help us in order to determine the IEF matrix.

1.7.2. Internal Factor Evaluation Matrix (EFE)

Data analysis techniques have been used for the Internal Factor Evaluation matrix (IFE matrix), which was a strategy formulation tool that summarizes and evaluates key strengths and weaknesses in the business functional areas, as well as a foundation for identifying and evaluating relationships between the areas. The main internal factors as mentioned in the internal audit process contains 10 to 20 factors, including organizational strengths and weaknesses. In the list the strong factors are first followed by the weak factors. We give each of those factors weights ranging from 0.0 (not important) to 1.0 (very important) as per the regulation of Higher Education of Afghanistan.

This weight indicates the relative significance of a factor to the success of the University's performance. Regardless of whether the main factor was an internal strength or weakness, the factors that were considered to have a major influence on organizational performance should be given the highest weight. The sum of all weights must be equal to 1.0. We rate 1 to 4 on each factor to indicate whether the factor was very weak (rank = 1), weak (rank = 2), strong (rank = 3) or very strong (rank = 4). Note that the strength should rank 3 or 4 and the weakness should rank 1 or 2. We multiply the weight of each factor by its rank to determine the weight score for each variable. By increasing the weight score of each variable we can obtain the total weight score of the University. The total weighted score for the internal factor evaluation is 2.30 that help us in order to determine the position of IEF matrix, which be discussed in proceeding discussion.

1.7.3. Internal-External Matrix Analysis (IE Matrix)

Internal-External Matrix (IE Matrix) positioned the various divisions of the university in nine cell views. The IE matrix was based on two key dimensions: the total IFE weight score on the X axis and the EFE weighted score on the Y axis. Each division within University must create an IFE matrix and an EFE matrix associated with the University. The total weight score obtained from these divisions allows the composition of the IE matrix at the University level. On the X axis of the IE matrix, a total IFE weight score of 1.0 to 1.99 indicates a weak internal position; a score of 2.0 to 2.99 was considered moderate; a score of 3.0 to 4.0 was strong. Similarly to Y axis, the EFE total weight score of 1.0 to 1.99 was considered low; a score of 2.0 to 2.99 was considered moderate; a score of 3.0 to 4.0 was high. This is decided based on the regulation of MoH of Afghanistan.

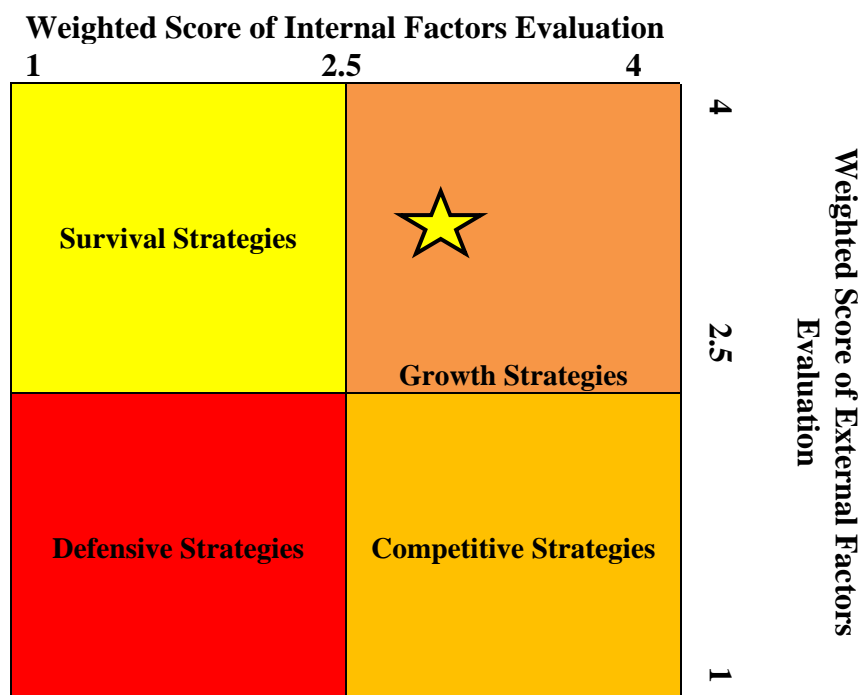

IE matrix could be divided into three major sections that have different strategy implications. First, the provisions for divisions included in cells II, III and IV could be described as growing and building that result in intensive strategy. Second, divisions entered in cells, I, V and IX could be handled properly through strategies for the survival. Third, the general provisions for divisions entered in cells VI, VIII, and VII are the defensive condition. The University of Khurasan is stood at the position V, this implies that the current position of the university is at the survival level. The university should adopt those strategies that are for the survival of the university.

The Internal-External (IE) Matrix is based on two key dimensions: the IFE total weighted scores on the x axis and the EFE total weighted scores on the y axis. Recall that each division of an organization should construct an IFE Matrix and an EFE Matrix for its part of the organization. The total weighted scores derived from the divisions allow construction of the corporate-level IE Matrix. On the x axis of the IE Matrix, an IFE total weighted score of 1.0 to 1.99 represents a weak internal position; a score of 2.0 to 2.99 is considered average; and a score of 3.0 to 4.0 is strong. Similarly, on the y axis, an EFE total weighted score of 1.0 to 1.99 is considered low; a score of 2.0 to 2.99 is medium; and a score of 3.0 to 4.0 is high. In our scenario, the score of external matrix is 2.82, while the score of internal matrix is 2.5795. This implies that the position of the Khurasan University is on maintenance and stability or in a position of survival.

1.7.4. Strategic Position

The strategic position of Khurasan University is depicted in the following figure, which is identified from the external factors, internal factors and SWOT analysis of the prospective questionnaires. As the weighted score of internal factors evaluation is 2.5795 while the weighted score of external factors evaluation is 2.82. Therefore, the intersection point of both internal and external factors lies in the section of growth strategies. Thus, the university would adopt the growth strategies.

1.11. Quantitative Strategic Planning Matrix (QSPM)

The QSPM is designed to determine the relative attractiveness of feasible alternative strategies by examining underlying key external and internal factors that characterize or impact the University. The following Table provides a generic QSPM in order to simply illustrate the preferences of the strategies. As shown in Table, a QSPM consists of feasible alternative strategies typically derived from a SWOT analysis. The strategies are arrayed across the top row, with key external and internal factors arrayed down the left column. Any number of strategies can be examined simultaneously in a QSPM.

Conceptually, a QSPM determines the relative attractiveness of various strategies based on the extent to which the alternative strategies will enable the University to capitalize upon strengths and opportunities, improve upon weaknesses, and avoid or mitigate external threats. The relative attractiveness of each strategy is computed by determining the cumulative extent that the respective strategy takes advantage of the key external and internal factors.
